

CVE-2025-27921: Reflected Cross-Site Scripting (XSS) Vulnerability

Published: 2024-12-25

Title: Reflected Cross-Site Scripting (XSS) Vulnerability

Impact: Remote code execution in the victim's browser

Affected Versions: All versions earlier than V2.0.63

Fixed Version: V2.0.63

Description

A reflected cross-site scripting (XSS) vulnerability was discovered in Output Messenger version V2.0.62, where unsanitized input could be injected into the web application's response. This vulnerability occurs when user-controlled input is reflected back into the browser without proper sanitization or encoding.

This allows attackers to inject and execute arbitrary JavaScript in the victim's browser, leading to potential exploitation of the session or other client-side attacks.

Impact

Remote attackers can inject and execute arbitrary JavaScript in the context of the victim's session. This could lead to:

- Session hijacking
- Phishing attacks
- Other client-side exploits

Important: This vulnerability may allow attackers to gain control of user sessions, steal sensitive information, or launch additional malicious actions in the context of the victim's session.

Fixed Version

The vulnerability was fixed in Output Messenger version V2.0.63. Users are strongly encouraged to upgrade to this version to mitigate the risk associated with this issue.
